

You're invited...

Talbot County Garden Club Free Winter Lecture Series
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25 - 11 AM to 12:30 PM
Talbot County Free Library, Easton, MD

SAMANTHA NESTORY
Engagement Manager
at Stoneleigh, a natural garden
in Villanova, PA

“Gardens Alive: Elevating Our Landscapes through Ecology”

Stoneleigh, a revered estate garden, has been transformed by modern horticultural vision into a garden that supports wildlife through native plants and sustainable landscape practices.

Come to this lecture to...

- Explore the diverse and creative ways native plants are used at Stoneleigh.
- Learn how ecology plays into garden design and management.
- Appreciate how even incremental changes in the landscape can impact our native wildlife in significant ways.

As engagement manager at Stoneleigh, Samantha Nestory develops educational programming, coordinates public events and manages volunteers. She previously worked in ecological horticulture at both the University of Pennsylvania's Morris Arboretum and at Stoneleigh. She is passionate about alerting the community to native plants, insects and the vital ecology of our region.

Information: Camille Massie: camille.massie501@gmail.com / 703-608-0477