

You're invited...

Talbot County Garden Club Free Winter Lecture Series

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25 - 11 AM to 12:30 PM

Talbot County Free Library, Easton, MD

KIRK R. BROWN,
Garden Historian & Designer
PRESENTS

“John Bartram Lives!”

Dramatic insights into the “Father of American Botany”

- Meet America's first and foremost horticulturist and plant collector (1699-1777).
- Learn how he scoured the countryside to collect native plants, then not only created his own garden, but also set up an international plant-trading business with eager buyers abroad.
- Discover how his enterprise, centered in Philadelphia, earned him the trust of other early American gardeners, including Thomas Jefferson and George Washington.
- Find inspiration in his humor, passion and achievements, which should give us hope for the future of the earth and its people!

Bartram: “The World’s Greatest Natural Botanist!”

According to Carl Linnaeus,
the “Father of Modern Taxonomy”